HONGKONG, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1907.

THE KING AND THE EMPIRE.

To-morrow all loyal Britons will cordially and wholeheartedly celebrate the anniversary of the birth of our King. These occasions in every country where kingship obtains are celebrated invariably with a large amount of what may be called official enthusiasm. Great parades, banquets and other orthodox methods of showing joy are held, even where the monarch is not particularly beloved. In the case, however, of King Edward, while the sentiment of loyalty demands that we should do homage to the monarch, the affection in which he is held throughout his dominions induces us to do loving honour to the man. It is not possible for a sovereign in these modern days to win the personal glory that used to be available to those who personally conducted military enterprises. It would, in fact, be almost impossible for any ruler of a large country, in these times, to assume direction of his army in the field. But while opportunities have been withdrawn in one direction they have been created in another. On the field of diplomacy victories are always waiting to be won. It is in no sense straining the truth to assert that the most striking of the victories which have been gained in the diplomatic arena of late stand to the credit of King Edward. It cannot be too often repeated that he has done more for the cause of peace than any other living man. By the exercise of extraordinary tact he has brought about a series of agreements and understandings which render the possibility of a European war extremely remote. One great country, it is true, has hitherto kept out of the clamorous circle. Up to the present Germany has preferred to stand aloof. But there is reason to hope that before long the relations between Great Britain and Germany will improve to an extent which will render possible, of course, an alliance, that is too much to count on for many years to come, but an understanding such as we have with France. The visit of the Emperor William to London will render the prospects much brighter. His Majesty is certain to receive a truly royal greeting, and, if the press does its duty, there is no reason why the mist of misunderstanding which has existed for so long between the countries should not be dissipated by the warmth of a new cordiality. There is absolutely no question at issue between Great Britain and Germany and it is difficult to find a satisfactory explanation of the ill-will which exists, or has existed, between some sections of the two peoples. Possibly this ill-will was based on ignorance of each other's qualities, and we are ashamed to have to admit it, the promptings of a press which, in neither country, seemed to recognise its responsibilities to the full. But returning to the subject of the King's birthday we feel confident that when His Excellency Sir Frederick Lugard wires the congratulations of this Colony he will say that the message is no mere form of words. It is with genuine feelings of reverence and love that Hongkong prepares to celebrate a day which brings to all thinking men the reflection that the occupant of the British Throne is not a mere figure-head but an earnest and greatly gifted worker for the weal of the Empire and the world.

Reports from Lotingchan, in the West River District of Kwangtung, give particulars of a most disastrous and appalling inundation, by which extensive damage to property has been caused over a wide area, and many hundreds of the peasantry have been rendered homeless and without resource. A flood so calamitous is said to be unprecedented in the region. In Lotingchan city three-fifths of the houses and other buildings are stated to have fallen. In certain low-lying villages in the vicinity the proportion of dwellings swept away by the flood is declared to be larger than in the city. It is probable that news in detail will soon reach the Colony from the foreigners who reside in or near Loting. If the accounts now before us from native sources are even approximately correct, it is manifest that the destruction caused by the flood has added another to the many sorrows under which the people are burdened at the present time.

The "Japan Chronicle," one of the most influential of the British papers in Japan, has been devoting considerable space to a discussion of the prosecution of Mr Bethell. In a strongly worded leading article our contemporary questions the legality of the proceedings and concludes: "The whole prosecution seems to us a serious mistake, whether from the point of view of the British or the Japanese authorities. Those who hold that the Japanese have been guilty of many unjust deeds and unfair proceedings in Korea will be convinced that the Government is merely desirous of closing the mouth of an independent critic, while the friends of Japan will have difficulty in allying such a suspicion. We can only regret that the British Government should allow itself to be made the medium of a Press prosecution. If the Japanese Government sincerely believes that the existence of the Korea Daily News in English and Korean makes it difficult to govern the peninsula, it is surely powerful enough on its own initiative to take measures of protection. The British Government has hitherto stood as the champion of free speech and a free Press. England has been the asylum whence much literature that certainly merited the term revolutionary has been disseminated. It is therefore all the more remarkable that an Order in Council applying to British residents in the Far East should be amended, without any intimation to Parliament, in order to provide machinery for crushing a small journal in Seoul which is in bad odour with the Japanese Government."

LOCAL AND COAST NEWS.

Last evening at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. Mr F. Bonno delivered an address on the life of Farraday.

Major W. A. F. Williamson, Army Service Corps, left for Tientsin per s.s. Princess Alice on 6th instant, for temporary duty.

When entering the harbour recently the German mail steamer Princess Alice passed over a wreck near the Kowloon shore. Though the steamer did not sustain much damage, it might be pointed out that it is over twelve months since the typhoon of 1906—which probably sank the wreck.

By kind permission of the Captain and officers, the band of the H.M.S. Bedford will play the following programme at the "Al Fresco Fete" in aid of the funds of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul to be held in the compound of the Roman Catholic Cathedral on Sunday, 10th, November: March—"The Gladiators' Farewell" (Blaukenburg); Overture—"Light Cavalry" (Suppe); Selection—"Cavalleria Rusticana" (Masagni); Valzer—"Angelina" (Puccini); Fantasia—"Neapolitan Songs" (Puccini); Polka—"Les Premier Pas" (Cottee); "God Save the King."

In these districts in which hardly any Jews live the Jewish character is spitefully and contemptuously represented in proverbial expressions. # THE WUCHOW ANTIMONY WORKS.

[BY C. N.]

Standing on a hill outside the city of Wuchow, by the side of the monument of the late lamented, Dr Macdonald, one of the first things of attraction is the chimney of a large block of buildings, which, from that distance, looks like a factory. I thought a visit would be worth while in order to see what was going on, and found the place a hive of industry. The area of ground enclosed seems to be something more than an English acre, and though most of the buildings are yet incomplete some of them have been finished, and were devoted to the purpose for which they had been erected. In a word the place was a smelting works, and has been erected in order to smelt antimony, of which it was said that there are large quantities in the province of Kwangsi. Some of the raw ore was lying under a shed, and coals were not work breaking it into small pieces by means of hammers just as stonebreakers prepare stones for the road. It appears that the raw ore is very rich, for on appealing to the man in charge, who, by the way, is from Kwangsi, I was informed that when the ore is smelted only about twenty per cent is found to be slag. This I suppose is a very satisfactory percentage, though of this I am unable to speak, having no knowledge on the subject. At any rate, the foreman seemed quite satisfied.

The place is under the superintendence of the officials, as far as I could discover, for the men at work were all men of an alien tongue, inasmuch as many of them were either from Kwangsi or Hunan, whilst a few of the lower coolie class were from Kwangsi. There were hardly any Kwangtungites employed. Moreover, foreigners have had nothing to do with the venture in any way, and from the inception of the works till to-day, native knowledge and talent have been relied upon. The machinery for the smelting furnaces has all been made in Shanghai, under native superintendence, and though some of the doors and parts of the furnaces seemed to lack finish, there is no doubt that they serve their purpose well enough, at least for the present. It was said that about one hundred men of all classes were employed upon the premises, and they were also all housed there, according to Chinese ideas, and were fed from a common table, as was witnessed by the noble dimensions of the common cooking house.

There must, however, be other ideas in the minds of the promoters of this enterprise, for other sheds are being put up, and other furnaces are being built, which, if devoted to the smelting of this ore metal, will presently furnish a good deal for the market. Perhaps what is of greater import still is the assurance that this ore smelting works, if it pays anything, will be a splendid object lesson, and will incite the moneyed classes or the officials to open others for smelting other metals.

On questioning the superintendent I was advised that Kwangsi was the home of much rich ore and that this was well known to those who had been interesting themselves in the matter, and that presently there would be an attempt to work other kinds of mines, and open other kinds of smelting works. Meanwhile this particular undertaking seems to be going on favourably, without any direction of foreign talent, and, judging from the number of furnaces at work, and others which were in course of construction, there must be every prospect of a good business. Last of all there was great geniality shown on the part of the men in charge, who seemed to put themselves at our service for the brief space we ventured to trouble them, and the general friendliness of the superintendent appeared when he told us that two days before he was in one of the Christian Churches in the vicinity, listening to an exposition of Christianity, and was most interested in what he had heard.

The place, perhaps, lacked the past and go that are usually associated with foreign energy under such conditions, but this is only another way of saying that the place was under the direction, and worked by the Chinese themselves. Everybody knows that they are by no means so foolish in their movements as our Europeans and Americans, and so we noticed a lack of this trait of character. On the other hand every body seemed to know what to do, and, in his own way, did his own work, and so it came to pass that raw ore was put into the smelting pans, and, next to be the proper rent, fuel metal, ready to be poured into the moulds. The whole place was a hopeful sign of what may yet be expected, when there is a little more knowledge, and a little more mutual trust amongst the Chinese themselves.

COLLAPSE OF QUEBEC BRIDGE.

Relied too Much on One Man.

Although there was not hitherto any evidence given before the Quebec Bridge Commission yesterday (September 27) directly to the point it is now the impression here that a "mistake" was made in relying so implicitly upon the judgment of Theodore Cooper, the consulting engineer of the Quebec Bridge Company, as to the plans for the structure which collapsed on August 29th with such disastrous results, involving as it did engineering problems of great magnitude. It is felt that the Government should have submitted the designs to a committee of the most expert engineers available. That this course will be adopted for the reconstruction of the bridge is practically a foregone conclusion.

The commission brought its Canadian sittings to an end in Ottawa this morning, and will go from there to the United States. Mr Holgate, the chairman, made an interesting statement, in which he said: "As far as we have been able to learn, there had been the greatest care taken all along the line to ensure the safety and permanency of the Quebec Bridge structure, and a wonderful care and economy in carrying the plans out was shown. We found absolutely no trace of dishonesty or graft in connection with the construction of the bridge."

"THE HONGKONG WEEKLY."

To-morrow's issue of the "Hongkong Weekly" will be found interesting, dealing as it does with many matters of local concern. It presents an excellent photograph of His Majesty the King, and a group of caricatures of Volunteers, as well as other illustrations. There is matter for the financial, for the commercial and for the sporting men, for the ladies, and for the general readers.

THE REVIEW.

Programme for Happy Valley.

To-morrow morning at Happy Valley the usual review of troops will take place. At 9.45 a.m. the troops in garrison, except those at field training, will parade at Happy Valley and be formed in two lines, forty paces apart. The first line will consist of Royal Garrison Artillery, Royal Engineers, 3rd Middlesex Regiment, and Hongkong Volunteer Corps, and the second line of H. K. S., B. R. G. A., 19th Infantry, and 129th Baluchis.

The bands will be missed in the rear of the centre. The mounted troops, Hongkong Volunteer Corps, will act as an escort to His Excellency the Governor, and will take part in the march past. The Governor will be received with a royal salute, and, after he has inspected the parade, cheers will be given for the King. The division will march past in column, reform, advance in review order, halt, and return to barracks.

The police have made special preparations to handle the heavy ricksha traffic that is bound to take place.

THE LIEMCHAU RIOTERS.

Viceroy Chou has received a despatch from Peking urging him to be active in restoring order and suppressing the rioters at Liemchau.

The Viceroy has asked to be allowed to recall Admiral Lieben to Canton, and the request has been granted.

NOTES FROM CANTON.

[BY A STRAY CONTRIBUTOR.]

SHAMONE, Thursday.
We have just begun to enjoy delightful weather, the nights being beautifully cool, and it appears once more worth living.

Great preparations are being made for the celebration of the King's Birthday on Saturday next. The Consul-General, Mr R. B. Mansfield, C.M.G., will be "At Home" in the forenoon, while in the afternoon athletic sports, consisting of amusing games, such as Sack Race, Animal Race, Obstacle Race, and so on, will be held, to witness which doubtless the entire community will turn out. This will not end the festivities, for an air open concert is to be held on the new Croquet-lawn after dinner, for which an attractive programme has been prepared by a keen committee. Shamone will certainly "spend itself" on Saturday! The British men-of-war that are expected to be here for the occasion are the sloop Cadmus (Commander Wilkin), river-gunboats Robin (Lt. Comm. Wickett) and Sandpiper (Lt. Comm. Tiekell), and the torpedo-boat-destroyers Fame, (Lt. Comm. Gresson) and Handy (Lt. Comm. Dirksen).

Turning to sport, Football and Hockey have started, and yesterday afternoon I witnessed a spirited practice-game of "Soccer." An amusing incident occurred before the game. A referee had been impressed for service but there was no whistle. There was much consternation among the players, when one of them hit upon the brilliant expedient of relieving one of the Municipal Police (who happened to be strolling by) of his, and for an hour or so the custodian of law and order was an interested (or bored, as the case may be) spectator of the game. There are the makings of a fairly good Association eleven; and to-day the Shamone representatives meet those of H.M.S. Robin, but I fancy the sailors will win. The best of the shore contingent appear to be Comrie, Gilman, Inchoff and Cunningham. Prospects of interport encounters with your port are entertained but not so hopefully, I take it, as in years past.

As regards the river there is to be an International four oar race on Saturday, the 16th, the competing crews being British and German. The latter seem to be favourites at present. But the keenness shown by the British four during practice is, I think, an indication that we shall see a better race than some people anticipate. The new Boat-house is nearing completion, and is a building in every way creditable to the Club. While on the subject of building, one begins to wonder when Shamone is going to stop in this respect. Hoardings and scaffolding meet the eye wherever one turns, and there must shortly come the time when the place is actually "built out," if the expression is a legitimate one.

PRINTING OF THE BIBLE.

"J. P. O." in the "Pall Mall Magazine" deals with the Clarendon Press. The production of "par excellence" by which the Oxford Press must stand or fall is, he says, its printing of the Bible, and when it has any display of its work to the great exhibitions the Bible has been foremost in the number and variety of specimens. It issues seventy-one editions, ranging from the tiny edition in the type called "brilliant" to a resplendent pulpit folio like an altar-stone. America takes over six tons of these different Bibles every week, and the totals issued in the year mount up to millions. And yet the variety of editions is nothing to the variety of the four hundred languages and dialects in which the sacred text is printed.

His Excellency's Appreciation.

The following letter has been received from His Excellency the Governor by the Commandant and is published for information.

"I shall be grateful if you will be so good as to express to the Officers and men under your Command my keen appreciation of the general efficiency and smartness of the Corps so far as I was able to judge of what I saw yesterday."

"The gun and maxim drill which I saw was excellent and characterized by great keenness, with a thorough knowledge of how to handle the guns and maxims in action. I was also greatly interested in the Semaphore class of Cadets. The Camp was admirably laid out, and the messing and other arrangements appeared to leave nothing to be desired. The lighting of the Camp was a very special feature and reflects great credit on the Engineer Company."

"I hope when we next meet that the Strength of the Corps will have further increased."

In connection with the Johnson celebration at Lichfield, an apt quotation from Shakespeare by George III., in reference to the Doctor, may be worth notice. The King had a habit of making careful notes on the various persons with whom he came in contact, which he used to illustrate with very apposite quotations from Shakespeare and other authors. Mr. Willis, the well-known bookeller, happened to see one of the King's note-books for 1778, and found there the following quotation from "Love's Labour's Lost," against Dr. Johnson's name: "He draweth out the thread of his verbosity finer than the staple of his argument; I labour under such fanciful phantasies; such rickles of orthography." Yet somehow Johnson fills a large space in the memories of men than his kindly critic.

ALLEGED SWINDLERS.

An interesting story has leaked out with regard to a gang of alleged swindlers. The police received information that a firm was carrying on illegal business in a wholesale way, and in consequence of this Detective-Sergeant Sullivan was dispatched to the head office of the firm at 88, Hollywood Road. The appearance of the shop surprised him for on the walls were costly Chinese scrolls, and handsome blackwood furniture and other ornaments. The surroundings were such as would tend to indicate that the firm was a sound one, and this evidently was the object of the shareholders who, if the story told by witnesses is true, were dealing in thousands. The Sergeant's visit resulted in the arrest of a broker, named Young Pak San, and Yoo Sui San, Chan Kam Tong, Hoo Wan Shang and Woo Kow, all of whom were described as having no occupation. The defendants appeared before his Worship on a charge of starting a Company similar to that of Messrs. Sincere and Co. with a capital of $8000 in 40,000 debenture shares, all of which were to be taken up by the third defendant, said to be sixteen years of age. This Company was to have premises in Queen's Road Central, and if they were unable to rent a shop they were to purchase one. The first man approached by one of the touts to become a shareholder in this new venture was the purchasing clerk employed by Messrs. Sincere and Co. He was told that his experience would be useful in the new venture, and that it would be worth his while to take a share in the Company for $500. He borrowed this and went to an office in Hollywood Road, where he was received by some of the defendants. They had a conversation and then a gamble was suggested, drinks coming on in the meantime. The purchasing clerk stated that after being there a time he got a little stupid, and someone got him to sign a promissory note, but he could not say for how much. On leaving the shop his suspicions were aroused, and he told the story to the managing partner of Messrs. Sincere and Co. In the meantime, it is alleged, the third defendant went to the latter firm and purchased cloth to the value of $122 odd. When the manager of Sincere and Co. heard his clerk's story he decided to go to the shop in Hollywood Road and recover the cloth sold to the first defendant. On arriving there he was told that two men could not be admitted into the office at one time, so left and reported the case at the Central Police Station.

The first defendant said he had been in the Colony only one month, prior to which time he was in Shanghai, but other people who had been victims called at the police station to see the defendants, and he was identified by one of the callers as the keeper of brothel in Yai Wing Lane. Later on another native, who said he had been defrauded out of $2,500 by the first and third defendants, appeared at the station and identified them. On that occasion the project of the defendants was to start a bank with a capital of $40,000. This man took a sum of $2,500 to the house to purchase a share in the proposed bank. He was informed that one of the shareholders of the Company was absent, and asked to await his return. As the absent member was rather long in putting in an appearance, a gamble was again suggested and, according to the story of the man, the first thing he knew was that he was minus his $2,500 and he had also signed a promissory note for, he thought, $5,000.

As a result of enquiries a charge was heard at the Magistrate's this afternoon and adjourned until Friday. Mr Otto Kong Sing appeared for the prosecution, and Mr Crowther Smith (of Messrs d'Almeida and Smith) for three of the defendants, whose bail was fixed at $5,000 each. The fourth and fifth defendants' bail was fixed at $1,000.

SINGING GIRLS AT SWATOW.

A Licensing System.

(From Our Correspondent.)

SWATOW, November 3.
A license scheme for the singing and other public slave girls has been put in force here. The unfortunes are divided into three classes and pay, respectively, 4, 6 and 8 dollars per month. A card bearing the photograph on one side and license on the other is issued to each girl. The concessionaire, monopolist, tax farmer, or whatever you may term him, has opened a "yamen," and is acting, I am told, under authority from Canton.

We have always thought the Chinese Government (theoretically at least) frowned upon any recognition of the social evil, but it seems times are changing. It is unnecessary to add that the slave owners and exploiters of these wretched slaves (many children among them) are jubilant, as they are now able—at any rate in Swatow—to follow their nefarious trade under quasi-governmental approbation, with consequent enhancement of value of the chattels. Some 300 are registered, which should give the Mandarin a good chance. The news is travelling and every steamer brings additions to the rapidly swelling list of slaves. In their train come the parasites, etc., so thievery and roguery should increase.

A new Tactel is here, and it seems to me that there are better ways of raising money than taxing the unfortunes. Swatow is a wealthy place, and I am certain that if the Tactel showed that money raised was devoted to the use for which it was gathered, he could get together any reasonable amount. The people hereabouts have travelled and wish improvements and protection for life and property, and any official who will not divert the greater part of sums raised to his own pocket can count on substantial backing.

NEW WARSHIPS.

St. Vincent and Collingwood are the names appointed by the Admiralty for the first two of the monster 10,250 ton "improved," "Dreadnoughts" of this year's programme. They are to be built at Portsmouth and Plymouth Dockyards respectively. The St. Vincent takes up the name of the training-ship sent last year to the ship-breaker, a famous 120 gun three-decker launched in the year of Waterloo, as a sister to the Nelson and the Howe, three first-rates named to commemorate the three great admirals of the Napoleonic war. Earl St. Vincent was alive at the time, and was asked by the Prince Regent to go down to Plymouth and launch her himself, but he was too ill and infirm to leave. Collingwood's name was first chosen for a mino-war, it is interesting to note, by Hardy, Nelson's captain at Trafalgar, in 1832, when Hardy was First Sea Lord in Sir James Graham's Board—the same year in which, by coincidence, Hardy by his own personal efforts, saved the Victory from being broken up. Our list, Collingwood, one of the Admiral class of battleships, still exists on the list of Sir John Fisher's "castaways," with the fatal "To be sold" against her name.

BANANAS.

It is astonishing, says the British Consul at Havre, how popular bananas have become in France. Not so long ago the banana was a rarity; now it is to be found hanging up in every fruiterer's window. In 1877 only 5,000 bunches of bananas were imported into France; this rose in 1901 to 30,000 bunches, and in 1904 to 250,000 bunches. The bananas sold in the South of France and Algeria, although sold under the name of Dalmatian bananas, as a rule come from the Canary Islands. The highest prices are obtained in the spring and autumn. Before France, encouraged by the high prices she has to pay for her bananas, takes to growing them herself in the many Colonies suitable to their cultivation, it would be well, Mr. Hean thinks, for British firms to stimulate the importation and taste for Dalmatian and other West Indian bananas, which in his opinion, are finer than the Canary fruit.

Remarkable shrinkages have been going on among the Swiss glaciers, especially in the last two or three years. According to measurements, the great Rhone glacier, one of the mightiest of Switzerland, is used to be—has been in the last two years no less than 88,260 square feet, and others have been shortened by anywhere from 20 ft. to 40 ft. Among sixty-three recessions were discovered, one glacier remained stationary, and nine had slightly increased. The conspicuous gain was made by the Jiger glacier, which lengthened itself 114 ft. last year; but observers say that these increases are not permanent.

RAVAGES OF THE TEREDO WORM.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 3.—Advices from the Gray's Harbor country in the Puget Sound and from various sections in the Puget Sound lumber districts report that logging operations may have to be suspended indefinitely, because of the ravages of the teredos or ship worms. The worms have attacked all the logs in the water and bored them full of holes.

The logs floating in Puget Sound are tied up in great bunches of millions of feet each. The worms bore into the bark of the log and then continue their tunnelling through the good wood of the timber, always parallel with the bark. There may be hundreds of worms in one log, but their tunnels never intersect. Often it has been found that two borings are separated merely by a film of crustaceous matter.

In British Columbia, in the Clayoquot lumber district, operations have entirely ceased, owing to the ravages of the teredos. The worms have ruined all the year's cut of timber in the water, and the big Sutton Company has reported a loss of over 16,000,000 feet. Hundreds of lumbermen have been forced into idleness until the winter's work in the woods begins.

KEIR HARDIE'S PROTEGES.

Rioting in Calcutta.

CALCUTTA, Oct. 4.
The disturbances word, renewed here last night. In various streets of northern Calcutta numbers of students and hoodlums collected on the roofs of the houses and in the roadway and pelted the tramway cars and passers-by with bricks. Many cars were damaged and several pedestrians hurt. The Europeans in the cars were especially singled out for attack.

The Bazaar papers this morning throw the whole blame for the riots on the police, and publish extraordinary statements regarding alleged police brutality. The "Amrita Bazar Patrika" says that the municipal sweepers looted the shops in hundreds in the presence of constables, and asks: "Is it possible that this situation has been created in order to throw discredit on Mr. Keir Hardie?"

The "Bande Mataram" heads its account of the riots, "Armenian Horrors in Calcutta," and says: "The Armenian and Bulgarian horrors pale into insignificance before the heinous crimes of the police in the Indian quarters." The journal adds: "All houses and shops within a mile of Beadon-square were looted up, and the silence was only broken by the dying shrieks of the victims of the cowardly police. The same paper speaks of heaps of bodies lying on the streets, and of men gathered on the gay foot-path, and concludes with an appeal to the people to rise to the occasion and 'save the honour of our women.'"

As a matter of fact, no one was killed, though damaged hands are in evidence everywhere. The police indignantly deny the allegations made against them, and the evidence of eye-witnesses is cited that the police showed admirable restraint in the presence of great provocation, though in one case, at least, native constables assaulted Europeans.

The "Herald," referring to Mr. Keir Hardie's visit to Eastern Bengal, says: "Mr. Keir Hardie visits the most disaffected town in Bengal, in the company of Mr. Chaudhuri. He there speaks of Armenian horrors, and says that what is good for Canada is good for India. No wonder people at home are disgusted. The sooner he leaves India the better."

The journal concludes by calling Mr. Hardie's attention to the riots in Calcutta. The "Statesman" says:—

"It is difficult to understand the London opinions. Mr. Hardie may have expressed views which some would have been bound to regard as extreme, but it is not impossible that those who are within the Palace, who are responsible for the new edict, do not see their way very clearly. But they evidently understand that for good or evil, the new spirit has invaded China. They see that thousands of young Chinese are studying in Japan, and come back imbued with the fresh ideas of the Island Kingdom, and anxious to put them in force in their own backward country. They, too, full of young blood and youthful enthusiasm, are not the less ready to see Manchuria's privileges abolished when they recollect the sinister results of these privileges elsewhere. The reforms may, of course, fail in the end to effect their purpose, for history knows of many castles whose privileges have been revoked only to be regained with two-fold strength; but in that case China would remain isolated, stagnant, and retrograde. And though the steadfast pursuit of the path of reform may bring dangers for China and for those who come in contact with her, it does not follow that the continuance of a living death would not be equally dangerous in other ways. In any case, the Empress has touched a lever which will again set new machinery of unknown potentialities in motion; and by doing so she has taken a courageous step which should redound to the good of China and of her own dynasty as well. The Throns should be reversible when it rests on the respect of the whole people than when it is only upheld by a foreign caste."

WEATHER REPORT.

CHINESE REFORM.

A recent issue of the "Globe" contained the following article: An edict was recently issued from the Imperial Palace of Peking which will have an incalculable effect on the future of the Celestial Empire, and which may react in turn not only on the rest of Asia, but on the whole world. It was announced that henceforth the Manchurian army are to be disbanded, their special privileges removed, and that the Manchus are to become absorbed in the rest of the people. The two first provisions, indicative as they are of the spirit of reform that animates the Dowager Empress, will be less difficult to carry out than the latter. A conquering caste like the Manchus, in whose hands has been the official direction of China for three centuries, may have their privileges revoked, and he able to make no successful opposition but they will not so easily descend to the general level of the population. There have been revolts against caste in India; but the castes remain. And in Japan, in spite of the unequalled changes that have taken place in the last generation, the Samurai, though they have no distinctive privileges, are still a class apart. Whether, therefore, the Manchus will be submerged among the Chinese, from whom they have hitherto been scrupulously distinguished themselves, remains to be seen; at any rate, the lack of their power has been broken. Their children will no longer have their own schools; there will be no more Manchus pensions to suck away the proceeds of Chinese industry; and the Manchus as a whole will be subject to Chinese laws and jurisdiction, and possess no further immunity of taxation.

The edict can be directly traced to the Dowager Empress and Yuan-Shih-kai; and it is not the first time that they have shown themselves in sympathy with the forces of progress, whose influence is being felt both within and without the Palace. A previous edict, forbidding the binding of women's feet, was no less important in the social sense that the Manchus' abolition edict is in the political; and the decree prohibiting opium some months back was another sign that "reformation in a flood" is contemplated by the supreme authorities. Unfortunately in the latter case zeal outran discretion, and an interesting article by Lord William Cecil in a recent issue of the "Times" leaves little doubt that that edict has generally failed to effect its purpose.

What was the object of the latest and equally drastic order is on the knees of the gods; but it need not be seriously doubted that the Manchus will struggle hard for the retention of their privileges. Men who have been the dominant factor in the administration of an Empire for three hundred years do not resign their powers without a blow. It is true that they have been smitten in the house of their friends, for the Dowager Empress and the Royal Family are a Manchurian dynasty. But the autocratic mistress of the Celestial Empire appears to set the interests of China as a whole before the selfish monopolies of one particular class; and should the new policy be successful, carried out, another factor for the Manchus will have been removed. The Chinese are split up into different provinces, with varying dialects and frequently divergent sympathies. To quicken that dead weight might have seemed impossible; but external events—the China-Japanese war, the Russo-Japanese war, and the corresponding career of the neighbouring nation of Asiatics, have quickened it; but the problem of unification, of inspiring each district with common ideals and common aspirations, may still appear insoluble. But the abolition of Manchurian privileges is another step towards the new order.

To prophesy the result in such circumstances would be mere gratuitous foolishness. Even these Europeans now living in Peking, with long experience of Asiatic and Chinese ways, are at a loss when they attempt to unravel the conflicting threads of reform and reaction, and it is not impossible that those who are within the Palace, who are responsible for the new edict, do not see their way very clearly. But they evidently understand that for good or evil, the new spirit has invaded China. They see that thousands of young Chinese are studying in Japan, and come back imbued with the fresh ideas of the Island Kingdom, and anxious to put them in force in their own backward country. They, too, full of young blood and youthful enthusiasm, are not the less ready to see Manchuria's privileges abolished when they recollect the sinister results of these privileges elsewhere. The reforms may, of course, fail in the end to effect their purpose, for history knows of many castles whose privileges have been revoked only to be regained with two-fold strength; but in that case China would remain isolated, stagnant, and retrograde. And though the steadfast pursuit of the path of reform may bring dangers for China and for those who come in contact with her, it does not follow that the continuance of a living death would not be equally dangerous in other ways. In any case, the Empress has touched a lever which will again set new machinery of unknown potentialities in motion; and by doing so she has taken a courageous step which should redound to the good of China and of her own dynasty as well. The Throns should be reversible when it rests on the respect of the whole people than when it is only upheld by a foreign caste."

The Suffragettes are about to form a choir, and this is hardly playing the game of fair warfare, for their opponents have only themselves to blame.

Burglars broke into a newspaper office the other night and tried to run away with a pair of scissors. "Only going to show that while the pen may be mightier than the sword the scissors are not in it with a jemmy when it comes to safe-cracking."

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA, DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

THERE is probably no medicine made this is relied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use, people have learned that it is the one remedy that never fails. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by all chemists and store-keepers.

AUSTRALIA'S HARVEST PROSPECTS.

The cablegram appearing on Wednesday regarding the rain in Australia makes the following, from a Melbourne paper, interesting:—People are beginning to get anxious about the weather. The rain that ought to come at this time of year holds off; or, if there is any, it is scanty and in patches. It is better than nothing, but not enough to dispel the fears of a dry season. At the Melbourne Observatory the registered rain-fall to the end of September was over five inches below the average, and nearly three inches below the fall at the same time last year. The Government meteorologists have little consolation to offer. Mr. Barrochi is not sanguine. An area of low barometrical pressure, he said recently, was passing over the state, which might bring a little rain; but there were no indications of a general downfall. There has been a great deal of rain in Tasmania, and as a rule, when it rains there we get it here also; but for the last four months these rains have missed us altogether. Atmospheric conditions seem to have settled down into the same groove that preceded former droughts. Mr. Barrochi does not wish to cause alarm, and, as he says, a favourable change may occur at any time. At present there is nothing upon which he can base a definite prediction; but he advises farmers to be prepared for whatever may come. Mr. Noble, the Government meteorologist of New South Wales, considers it premature to predict a drought as yet. He holds that the science of the weather is not sufficiently advanced to justify the issue of seasonal or long-range forecasts in Australia. In America, where they have made much more extensive investigations than we have done in Australia, they will not issue forecasts for periods longer than 24 or 36 hours in advance. Mr. H. C. Russell, late Government meteorologist in New South Wales, it will be remembered, held the cycle theory, which Mr. Noble does not accept, and, according to his forecasts, good seasons may be expected until the end of 1913. Mr. Clement Wiggles, a much less cautious meteorologist than either Mr. Barrochi and Mr. Noble, who connects the weather with sunspots, predicts that the seasons will gradually grow drier from now until 1912 or 1913, when the drought will probably reach a climax, though it will not be as severe as the last one. These differing opinions of scientists should be comforting to those who fear an immediate drought. In spite of the forecasts of the late Mr. Russell and Mr. Wiggles, we are justified in taking the view of the majority of competent meteorologists, that regarding predictions of far-ahead weather, all that we know is—nothing can be known. Where everything is uncertain, and a change may come at any moment, there is no reason to take a pessimistic view of the situation.

A QUESTION THAT EVERY MAN SHOULD DECIDE FOR HIMSELF.

THERE is one subject in which many of us are interested and that is, what is the quickest way of getting rid of a troublesome cold? Is it best to take some new remedy put out with exaggerated claims, or to pin your faith to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, a preparation that has won a world-wide reputation and immense sale by its cure of this disease? This remedy is for sale by all chemists and store-keepers.

INQUISITIVE WU.

Mr Wu, the original Chinese interrogator mark, is to be sent back to this country as Chinese minister. In his several years of service as Minister at Washington, he distinguished himself by making a greater number of interrogations than all the other diplomats who have ever served in Washington.

"How much do you get?" "Are you worth it?" "How long did it take you to prepare yourself for your work?" "Is your work easy?" "Are you married?" "How many children have you?" These are samples of the questions the unconventional Mr Wu used to shower upon Washingtonians.

Li Hung Chang, whose trip around the world was one long interrogation, could not rank with Wu as a question asker. Diplomats and their wives were never spared by Mr Wu. Servants, hotel clerks, merchants, newspaper men, department employees, in fact, all the men and women he met were asked to lay bare their most guarded secrets. Mr Wu used to boast that the only way to learn things was to ask questions, and granting that this is true, he should be one of the wisest men in the world.

Embarrassed by the impudent questions which Wu used to ask Washingtonians, Washington newspaper men in turn used to have no hesitations in asking the distinguished Chinese minister any sort of question. He was in Washington at the time of the Boxer troubles and was then very much at odds with the Empress Dowager. Rumours came from China that Mr Wu was to be recalled and executed. One newspaper man immediately went to the Chinese Legation and asked the minister if this was true. For once Wu was non-plussed. He lost his voice and his temper, but was so confused that he could not even give the reporter a satisfactory answer.

A lady has appeared at the Hammett-Smith Revision Court and demanded that her name be removed from the list of voters where it had been for some years. It would have been quite in keeping with the anarchism, if the barrister had absolutely refused to do anything of the sort.

HOW TO DO MORE BUSINESS.

MANY AMERICANS have built up great commercial enterprises, by the use of Trade-name lists supplied by the CLIPPING BUREAU. Chinese merchants can do the same if they follow American methods.

We clip business news from more than 60,000 papers monthly, and send these items to you while there is good prospect of supplying what is needed and doing business.

We can send you news and clippings on any line of business, or any subject and you will be able to know, IN TRUTH, just what American business methods are like, and where there are openings for Chinese merchandise.

Suppose, for instance, you are a maker of pottery. Our Clipping Bureau might find in some paper an item saying that a big wholesale Pottery concern was being organized in a certain town—we, of course, would send you that business-news item, and give you a chance to do business with that firm.

We can do just the same in any line of business, for there is always something new that it might pay Chinese merchants to know.

We can supply you with advertisements of all the great American merchants and manufacturers, so that you may assimilate their ideas and increase your business in China the way we do here.

To avoid delay, send ten dollars (Mex.) for one month's trial order. Subsequent rates can be determined according to service. It won't cost any money to send for our fine Book which tells all about our service and how much it costs. Send for it today.
